

Nina Knittel works as a junior researcher at the Wegener Center for Climate and Global Change in Graz. In her field of research so far, she focussed on climate change related policy strategies such as adaptation and mitigation. She studied economics at the University of Graz and obtained a Master of Arts in Economics.